I grew up in a small village called Weeley on the North Essex coast before moving away for University and work, more recently living in Basingstoke Hampshire for 10 or so years. A change in work circumstances offered us the chance to move back to a village life and the opportunity to live near the sea once again. We moved into Brixton in the summer of 2019 and have enjoyed every minute of it.

We very much love the community spirit of Brixton and both myself and our son help with the village cleanup once a month as it is not only lovely to meet people but also deeply satisfying looking after our village. Our last house which we lived in for 10 years was in a new build estate, hopefully I can also share some of the failures and successes that we learnt over those years not only to Sherford but to any other small developments that may arise.

We live in a beautiful part of the world with the moors and coast at our doorstep and look forward to working with the parish council to preserve our village for future generations to enjoy.
